Fraser Canyon

C99

Some of the oldest headstones that can be seen in Boston Bar cemeteries today date back to both the building of the Cariboo Wagon Road and the construction of the Canadian National Railway. From canoes to mule trains of the Cariboo gold rush, the discovery of gold along the Fraser River in 1857, brought thousands of prospectors to the Fraser and Cariboo regions in the 1860's. The area around this river bar became a well known and busy roadhouse stop for many in this region, often having come from the Eastern United States. Some of the ships that brought them to British Columbia shores came from as far away as Boston. It is said that local First Nations referred to them as "Boston men," hence the name.

North Bend, across the Fraser River from Boston Bar, was originally named Boston Bar. When the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway was completed in 1885, the name was changed to North Bend, near the Chaumox Reserve, and the name Boston Bar crossed the river to the Boston Bar of today

Now part of the Fraser Valley Regional District, the Boston Bar area of the Fraser Canyon can be found at the co-ordinates listed below:

Boothroyd cemetery is located off the east side of Highway 1 (Trans-Canada Hwy), 12 Km at the North of Boston Bar next to the Fraser acres Cafe on the right hand side of the highway when travelling north

Approximately:
92H/14 (map) 49°59'00" 121°29'00"

Inkasaph cemetery (also spelled Inkahtsaph and Inkitsaph) is located off the east side of Highway 1 (Trans-Canada Hwy), 14.9 Km at the North end from the Boston Bar sign when travelling north

Approximately:
92H/14 (map) 50°00'162" 121°30'600"

Plot numbers refer to records, not cemetery layout. Many of the people buried in these gravesites are of First Nation background. Please respect any conditions for entry onto private land.
